Do you feel that any type of anime is underrepresented?(e.g. Classics, Mecha, Shoujo, etc.)

N/A

hentai

I don't know enough at this point to answer.

Mecha

Mecha

Mecha

Mecha, adventure, Shoujo

not really

Samurai

Seems like a good mix.

What should the club do during breaks?(e.g. Discussions, Video Shorts, Nothing, etc.)

- Video shorts, discussions, video gaming, ANYTHING. Going to CTRL-A shows are becoming less and less worth it for me now. Watching anime at CTRL-A is becoming like watching anime at home; watch some for an hour or two, take a break, watch more...take another break...and do other things when I've seen enough. It's just not the same as it used to be a couple years ago.
- Anime-related doses of gaming (for example, that Azumanga-beach-volleyball game, or Eternal Fighter Zero), or recap what happened previously for the shows about to be seen.
- Discussion, Play anime music
- discussions of the previous show(s)
- Either nothing or video shorts are fine with me.
- etc
- Having some breaks that are just breaks are always good, but it would be nice to see some AMVs/other short videos thrown into the mix, the slide shows that were shown occassionally recapping series and providing club news were good too. Ambient background music would be another possibility.
- I like the video shorts and the slides.
- Nothing. I mean, that's what breaks are for, right?
- Nothing--let people talk to one another
- Play music
- Red vs Blue, videogames
- Short anime videos, Free Pop(if possible),
- shorts
- Slides
- video shorts and such
- Video shorts, AMVs
- video shorts, draws
- video shorts, outtakes if available.
- video shorts/music videos, Red V.S. Blue

Do you like the way that the shows are run or scheduled?Would you like to suggest a different format?(e.g. 4 shows per term, bi weekly only on Friday, ..... )

- The format is alright, I just suggest doing something to get members more involved AT the shows. The lunch/dinner gatherings are great if you actually know people at CTRL-A. People like me, who may only know one or two because they're regulars like me, don't go to these outings because (to be blunt) it's just bloody awkward, hanging out with people you don't really know. Make it more involved at the shows, thus giving motivation for people like me to go out to said gatherings.
- Adding in an actually longer break on Friday so that people can go get food without missing anything would be nice. I think it would be good to see some sampler slots on the schedule which might allow for some additional variety.

- All is lovely. More shows would mean I would start missing them. Sometimes hard to devote four weekends a term as it is.
- I think we shouldn't mess with things as they are just now. Wait for Summer term to fiddle with what we've got.
- It's all good
- It's fine
- more shows per term, 6 would be great
- no.
- Personally, for me it would be great if the shows were only on Saturdays since I haven't been able to make it to Friday shows for the past year or more, because when I'm not having classes in Guelph 'til late afternoon, then I'm working the same throughout the summer in Cambridge. I know it's not the same for other people *shrug* I'm just thinking it's too bad I missed all the shows I did.
- shows are run well
- the format works well for me
- Yah for schedule.
- Yes

Do you have any other points or suggestions concerning the shows?

- I remember the exec's asking for recommendations on how to get more people out. My suggestion is the same as the previous answer; make it actually worth it for people to come out to CTRL-A shows, as opposed to just staying at home and watching the same titles. Get involved with the crowd during breaks, instead of just saying, "Okay we're taking a break, see you in ten." This could be through playing video shorts, having discussions (i.e. which series had the best/worst extras on their DVD's, etc.). Oh, and with CN Anime coming up Sept. 1-3, maybe plan something for that (i.e. talking with the people at Fan Expo about getting club members a discount/group rate, etc.) I don't know, just SOMETHING to make it worth for people coming out (other than Gemini Jetpack discounts).
- Just make sure that the line-up contains a variety of "good" shows from all different genres, so that we appeal to all of our potential audiences. This can be problematic if the members that attend meetings don't represent the wide range of different anime fans. (eg: if those deciding the line-up don't like shounen-ai/yaoi, they aren't going to include those kinds of shows, and if they did, they probably wouldn't know which ones are actually good)
- Let's prepare better in terms of actually having the discs for the things we want to show so we don't have last-minute substitutions.
- More Shows!
- Not any I can think of just now, but I express myself as clearly as I can at meetings
- One thing I really liked is when on Saturdays the show would end with a movie. After all the series, it seems like such a great way to end the day. But lately it's been all about Project A-ko *shudder* and I've been leaving the club earlier than I usually do.
- Smash Bros. contest every dinner break
- Some incentive for volunteers could include a draw (or something) for a poster of the picture on the membership cards. Larger posters with show schedules.
- Try doing something other than video games during dinner break. Have some other kind of contest or have a panel discussion or something. Anything.
- How do you feel about the addition of social events for members? What would you like to do at such an event?
- ?&42 ^
- As mentioned above, I don't go to the social events because I don't actually know anyone at the club, save a few familiar faces of the regulars.
- Eat. Sing. Watch more stuff. Have discussions. See if we can get something in at Poets so we can have a beer with our anime.

- Food is good at any event, especially if it's paid for by someone else, but it doesn't have to be.
- Great idea. I'm just sorry I haven't been able to make it out.
- I keep forgetting to go to them.
- I liek the idea.
- I like ordering people around and telling them where to go to eat. Seriously though, the dinners are good because they give members a chance to talk to one another. Other activities that also possess that quality would probably be a good idea, although I can't think of any at the moment.
- I personally don't intend to attend a social event for this club. I'm not keen on discussing anime over lunch. Perhaps some activities would improve the situation (video games, contests, etc).
- I think social events would be great. Fun events like Karaoke Night or just a general social would be nice (or even something Genshiken-ish).
- I think the lunches this term have been great and hope they continue. It might be nice to see a few other things, like maybe an occassional social night.
- I'd like to meet people I don't already know.
- It's good. It provides additional social time for members.
- Paintball, kareoke, picnic
- Talk about anime that have been watched in the term.
- The idea sounds great, but I live, work and go to school in other cities AND have troubles w/ transportation, which is why I most likely wouldn't be able to make.

How do you feel CTRL-A is doing as a club?

- Declining. As mentioned above, it's not worth the effort anymore to go out to CTRL-A shows, because the format is the same as if I were to watch anime at home; watch some anime, take a break, watch more, have dinner, etc. At least, this is would be my answer if anyone asked me why the CTRL-A membership is declining.
- Club like...
- Dying slowly and painfully, but I don't really care anymore.
- Excellent.
- Going Steady.
- good
- good, recruit more people by putting more posters around the city
- I think it's doing fine, although it seems like we need fresh meat ^_~
- It could use a few more audience members
- It seems to be the same little cadre that does everything. Involve more people. How to do this is still a mystery to me.
- Not well, though surviving.
- Obviously attendance was down this term but whether that was just because it was summer or due to lack of R2s or some other factor I don't know. Whether or not this will become a trend might be clearer in the Fall term, though the club should do what it can to attract new members: more advertising (such as in Imprint), social events, more activities at shows are all possibilities. For me, personally, I've generally enjoyed what CTRL-A has been showing and enjoy attending shows so it's hard to say what the issues are.
- poorly the past two terms
- Poorly, but we can get better.
- Poorly. Membership is dwindling due to a lack of interest in the club. Why pay 8 bucks to see what we show, when it can be downloaded, borrowed or rented? A big screen is not a good enough answer; CTRL-A needs to start acting likea club and not like a theatre.
- Pretty good. Need to have more exciting advertising (and maybe promote meetings in a different way)
- They're doing fine, to my knowledge.

- We certainly could be doing better as far as members go, although the exec/volunteers seem to be holding up (so far...) More advertisement might help, but we need to figure out how to better retain members as well.
- We need more members.

Do you have any other questions or comments you would like to make concerning the club?

- Get the members more involed in activities.
- I have fun at shows and I (mostly) like the folks that hang out there so keep up the good work.
- Nah
- no
- No
- Not that I can think of just now.
- Please, PLEASE make going to CTRL-A shows more worth it.
- Since i am unable to attend meetings I will take this opporuntity to offer my legally purchased dvds for the shows. I have Those Who Hunt Elves Season 1&2, Space Pirate Miho Season 1, all the Mini Goddess Files, Rumiko Anthology, Real Bout High School, Usurei Yatsura first 25 DVDs. Just contact me using my email several days before the show and I'll bring them. bowerman@golden.net
